About MPDC

Madison Park Development Corporation is a fifty year old not-for-profit organization located in Roxbury, Massachusetts. Madison Park Development Corporation (MPDC) was founded in 1966 by local residents and community activists dedicated to the redevelopment and revitalization of Roxbury; a community devastated by poor urban renewal policies.

With courage and persistence, the group rose like a phoenix from the ashes and garnered the resources needed to rebuild the once thriving community. This led to the formation of the Lower Roxbury Development Corporation; which later formed Madison Park Development Corporation.

MPDC became one of the nation's first community-based organizations to independently develop affordable housing for low and moderate-income residents.

The Ralph D. Smith

Community Service Scholarship

The Ralph D. Smith Community Service Scholarship is named after the first executive director of Madison Park Development Corporation. Mr. Smith was a resident of the old Lower Roxbury neighborhood. A baker by trade, Mr. Smith was a leader among the residents of the old neighborhood. He led the charge to redevelop and restore the acres and acres of land left vacant by urban renewal. Under his leadership, the core units forming the Madison Park Village complex were created. Upon his death in September 1998, Mr. Smith left his entire estate to MPDC to establish a scholarship fund in his name that would help students "who have demonstrated community service in the Madison Park Village and Lower Roxbury areas."

The Danette Jones Scholarship Fund

Danette Jones served as the second executive director of MPDC, from 1988 to 1998. Under Ms. Jones's leadership, MPDC expanded its housing development programs, created the cultural economic development collaborative, and launched its human capital campaigns. These initiatives included the establishment of youth and workforce development programs, revitalization of community organizing efforts, and the expansion of the computer training initiatives. Among Ms. Jones's many accomplishments is the successful transformation of the blighted Orchard Park Public Housing Development to the Orchard Gardens Townhouses.
